Jacob Ongaki, Ph.D., is a professor of higher education with many years of academic and professional experience in accounting and finance within the mutual fund industry (accounting, taxation, shareholder distributions and disclosures, and compliance).

He's a VP of One Voice Consortium (OVC) and founder of the Grand Granite Diaspora Savings and Credit Cooperative Society (SACCO) & the Investment Cooperative society. Despite the many challenges and obstacles in his life, Dr. Ongaki is thankful for many opportunities and believes every individual has the potential to grow and succeed well.

I am proud to be associated with OVC which has connected me with bright minds. We connect individuals and businesses to uplift the lives of many people around the globe. As a SACCO founder, creating members' financial sovereignty and a culture of volunteerism, accountability, trust, and safeguarding members' assets are critical tenants of sustainable organizations "together we uplift lives and transcend into greater heights".
